

160 meters should have the same mode-segmented band structure as as other bands below UHF. Operators using all modes will benefit from decreased interference between modes and better operating practices will result.